There seems to be an idea that in order to be in the beef cattle business one must have a cow-calf herd. When you think about it for a few minutes, you know this isn't true.

For the past three years there's been good money in buying light weight steers, putting them on feed and selling in the spring. This is a good system if you have high quality feed such as corn silage harvested at the proper stage. This also requires a higher level of management than running a cow herd.

If you take good grade steers averaging 375 pounds and put on 225 pounds of gain for the past three years your margin would have been $102. For these three years this kind of animal would have cost $162 and sold for $264. Remember the lighter the cattle the greater the margin. The heavier the cattle the more they eat and they bring less per pound the following spring.

The question that needs to be answered in the next couple of weeks is should you make corn silage or leave it as hard corn and sell the corn. The right answer comes if you can correctly guess three unknowns: 1. What will be the price of corn this winter? 2. What will feeders sell for this fall? 3. What will the calves be worth next spring?

If you are heavy on good pasture, it may be that you'd want to consider buying light weight calves this fall, wintering them to gain .75 to 1 pound a day, grazing next summer, and sell as yearlings next fall.

Fire-cured tobacco harvest got underway this week. We should see another crop that will closely parallel the '73 crop in terms of pounds per acrfe.

Last spring Ortho Chemical Company made available a zip seeder for reseeding clover in grass or seeding and clover in existing stands. This concept is closely akin to sod planting corn. The broadleaf weeds are killed by applying 2,4-D; a week later Paraquat is used to "knock down" the grass competition and 2 to 3 days later plant with the zip seeder.

Jerry McCoy, Ortho representative, was by Monday; he is going to make this piece of equipment available to Appomattox farmers for the remainder of this planting season. The seeder will be housed at Tolley's Liquid Fertilizer Plant. It's important to point out that interested farmers are under no obligation to purchase their herbicide or fertilizer from Mr. Tolley.

We are going to try to schedule the use of this piece of equipment from this office. If you are interested in using it, give us a call or come by and we'll help you work out the details.

In The World Ye Shall Have Tribulation

Are you asking the reason of this, Christian? Look upward to your heavenly Father, and behold Him pure and holy. Do you know that you are one day to be like Him? Will you easily be conformed to His image? Will you not require much refining in the furnace of affliction to purify you? Will it be an easy thing to get rid of your corruptions, and make you perfect even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect?

Next, Christian, turn your eye downward. Do you know what foes you have beneath your feet? You were once a servant of Satan, and no king will willingly lose his subjects. Do you think that Satan will let you alone? No, he will be always at you, for he "goes about like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour." Expect trouble, therefore, Christian, when you look beneath you.

Then, look around you. Where are you? You are in an enemy's country, a stranger and a sojourner. The world is not your friend. If it be, then you are not God's friend, for he who is the friend of the world is the enemy of God. Be assured that you shall find foes everywhere. When you sleep, think that you are resting on the battlefield; when you walk, suspect an ambush in every hedge. As mosquitoes are said to bite strangers more than natives, so will the trials of earth be sharpest to you.

Lastly, look within yourself, into your own heart and observe what is there. Sin and self are still within. If you had no devil to tempt you, no enemies to fight you, and no world to ensnare you, you would still find in yourself evil enough to be a trouble to you, for "the heart is deceitful above all thing, and desperately wicked." Expect trouble then, but lose not hope on account of it, for God is with you to help and to strengthen you. He has said, "I will be with you in trouble; I will deliver you and honor you."
